LABOUR PAIR RETAIN SEATS

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

THERE was double delight for Labour as Catherine West and David Lammy were re-elected as Haringey's two MPs in last Thursday's general election – both winning with hugely increased majorities.

Ms West more than doubled the majority she had previously held when she won the Hornsey and Wood Green seat in 2015.

She gained a total of 40,738 votes, giving her a 30,738 majority – compared to the 11,508 margin she previously held.

She won the seat with a 65.4 per cent share of the vote.

The triumph was due in part to the collapse of the Lib Dem vote as well as a larger turnout. A total of 77.3 per cent of the constituency's voters came out to vote this time round, compared to 73.15 per cent two years ago.

The Lib Dems saw their total vote slump to 10,000 down from the 18,335 votes they recorded in 2015.

Their candidate Dawn Barnes still managed to come second, although it allowed the Conservative's Emma Lane to narrow the gap in third place with 9,246 votes.

The rest of the votes are as follows: Sam Hall (Green) 1,181, Nimco Ali (Women's Equality Party) 551, Ruth Price (UKIP) 429, Helen Spilby-Vann (Christian People's Alliance) 93, Anna Athow (Workers Revolutionary Party) 55.

David Lammy held his Tottenham seat with a thumping 40,249 vote victory.

He increased his majority to 34,584 – that's 12,020 votes more than the 23,564 majority he won in 2015.

He received a staggering 81.6 per cent share of the vote.

Mr Lammy said he was "humbled and proud to re-elected in the place where he grew up."

The Conservative vote held up with their candidate Myles Stacey gaining 565 votes.

Lib Dem Brian Haley finished third with 1,667 votes replacing the Greens, who had come third in 2015 when they had pushed the Lib Dems into fourth place.

The Greens saw their share diminished with their candidate Jarelle Francis polling 1,276 votes.

UKIP candidate Patrica Rumble, gained 462 votes and together with the Lib Dem and Green candidates lost their £500 deposits for failing to gain a five per cent share of the vote.

New parents can find light relief

PARENTS with a young child need a few laughs as they cope with raising babies.

And a gag-filled, daytime show aims to get families out of the house.

Bring Your Own Baby Comedy, which heads to Haringey next month, was 'conceived' by comedians Carly Smallman and Alyssa Kyria.

Mum of one, Alyssa, who suffered with postnatal depression after the birth of her daughter, was recounting how suddenly she had gone from being her own person to being "Lola's mum".

She remembered how nervous she had felt about going out with her baby.

The show is coming to Crouch End on Tuesday, July 4, at the Crouch End Picturehouse in Tottenham Lane at 10.30am and the first Tuesday of the month from then on.

Available to pick up at: Sainsbury's, Williamson Road, Green Lanes; Tesco, 230 High Road, South Tottenham; Sainsbury's, 867-869 High Road, Tottenham; Asda, 490 High Road Tottenham; Tesco Express, 25 The Broadway, Crouch End; Morrisons, High Road, Wood Green; Sainsbury's, 54-58 High Road, Wood Green; Wood Green Central Library, Wood Green; Alexandra Park Library, Alexandra Park Road, Wood Green; Coombes Croft Library, High Road, Tottenham; Hornsey Library, Haringey Park; Marcus Garvey Library, Tottenham Green Centre, 1 Phillip Lane; Muswell Hill Library, Queens Ave, Muswell Hill; St Ann's Library, Cissbury Road, South Tottenham; Stroud Green Library, Quernmore Road

Teen becomes a fire ambassador

A HARINGEY teenager, who was helped to regain his confidence following a personal tragedy by becoming a fire cadet, has been appointed one of the UK's first Fire Cadet Youth ambassadors.

Tiernan Routledge, pictured, 17, was one of five young cadets with the London Fire Brigade recently selected for the newly-created roles.

Responsibilities include encouraging more females and youngsters from ethnic minorities to consider a career as a firefighter, plus attending formal events with the brigade's senior officers to represent the brigade, as well as visiting cadet units to talk about their experiences, representing the Fire Cadets on the LFB Youth Board and spreading fire safety advice.

Tiernan, who is a member of the Haringey cadet unit, was appointed as the Fire Cadets' assistant commissioner ambassador.

Tiernan plans to become a firefighter when he leaves school and joined as a cadet four years ago when a teacher recommended he join one of the special intensive five-day courses run at local fire stations giving 14-17 year-olds the opportunity to learn the job of a firefighter.

"After my dad died, my confidence dropped at school and one of my teachers told me about the LIFE (Local Intervention Fire Education) course and said I would be a good fit for it," he said.

"I enrolled on the course and it just gave me such a huge confidence boost. I then went on and joined the Fire Cadets and my confidence has just kept on growing.

"London Fire Brigade has done so much for me that I wanted to do something to give back to them and inspire young cadets, which is why I applied for an ambassador role."

High definition CCTV cameras for borough crime hotspots

HIGH definition mobile CCTV cameras are being installed in crime hotspots across the borough.

The mobile cameras have the advantage of being moved and will target areas with high levels of crime including anti-social behaviour and fly tipping, which will be monitored from a control room 24 hours a day by a team of operators.

There are already more than 350 CCTV cameras operating in Enfield to reduce crime, assist police in catching and arresting criminals, as well as providing evidence for prosecution.

"These cameras give us the opportunity to react rapidly to emerging issues," said Cllr Krystle Fonyonga, Enfield Council's cabinet member for community safety and public health.

"And they will help us and our partners in the police to act quickly and decisively to gather evidence and identify the perpetrators of the crimes that most worry our residents.

"These cameras will increase our ability to reduce crime and disorder in our fantastic borough," added Ms Fonyonga.

"We want criminals to know 'we'll be watching you' and there is no place in Enfield for criminal behaviour."

Crackdown on knife crime

By Adrian Colley

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

ENFIELD police are arresting at least four people a day in their clampdown on knife crime in the borough.

In a shocking update in a Facebook video posted today, borough commander Iain Raphael produced figures on OpBremont – which is near the end of its fifth week.

Two people have died in Enfield in knife attacks during those five weeks.

In a Facebook video lasting nearly four minutes Commander Raphael said: "There have been 280 stop and searches carried out:

- 152 people have been arrested
- 115 weapon sweeps of areas have been carried out across Enfield
- 145 knives have been recovered
- 47 people have been directly arrested for possession of knives
- 50 arrests were in relation to drug offences

Mr Raphael said: "We are starting to see that some of our knife crime is directly linked to drugs.

"We are now seeing a reduction year on year in knife crime and it's starting to go in the right direction. Clearly it's not a level yet that I feel comfortable with."

Mr Raphael also said a focus on gangs, with the help of Enfield Council, was paying off.

He said: "We are looking at carrying out a considerable amount of gang work. Already this year we have made 70 to 80 arrests of gang members.

"We are focusing and disrupting those whose lifestyle involves gang activity.

He added: "We need your continued support. I feel passionately that parents schools and young people have got to make it socially unacceptable to carry a knife. We desperately need and always want your information on anyone who is carrying a knife."

He ended by appealing for people to contact police directly if they suspect someone has a knife.

Ryan delighted to win and see off her Tory rival

LABOUR retained the Enfield North seat, winning by a landslide to massively increase the slender 1,086 majority, which had made it one of the Conservative's target marginal seats

Joan Ryan defeated main rival Nick de Bois in what was expected to be a close run contest, declaring it "a stunning majority".

The result saw Ms Ryan elected with a massive majority of 28,177 votes with the Conservative party trailing in second place with 17,930.

Stunning victory: Joan Ryan

The turnout was 71.13 per cent, up by three per cent on the last general election.

Speaking after her triumph Ms Ryan said she was "absolutely thrilled" with the overwhelming victory.

She said she would continue campaigning on increasing the levels of policing, which has been a "key issue" following the recent spate of stabbings in the borough.

"These things can only happen if we have a government that supports proper policing and good health services," she said.

Ms Ryan added that voters had shared Labour's "values" and "principles".

"It shows that they do want to work together, they want schools that are better funded and teachers who are properly paid."

Ms Ryan who was Enfield North MP between 1997 and 2010, regained the seat two years ago after losing to Tory Mr de Bois in 2010.

The Liberal Democrats' Nicholas da Costa secured third place with 1036 votes while UKIP's Deborah Cairns won 848 votes.

The Green Party's Bill Linton received 574 votes.

There were 125 spoilt ballot papers.

Speaking after the defeat Mr de Bois congratulated Ms Ryan and referred to her as the "other woman in his life" following their long-standing battle for the marginal seat.

Labour candidates in Enfield clean sweep

Enfield's election night results bamboozled those who'd expected the likelihood of an upset in the marginal seat of Enfield North-only for the shock surprise to happen in Enfield and Southgate as Labour underdog Bambos Charalambous unseated long-serving Tory David Burrowes. Celebrations, including a impromptu 'Zorba the Greek'-style dance from Labour Cllr George Savva, greeted the result as Labour unexpectedly captured what had been considered a safe Tory seat.

It was a triumphant night all round for Labour with Joan Ryan retaining Enfield North with a massively increased majority and Kate Osamor returned to the Edmonton seat also increasing her majority as well as her share of the vote. Reports from Priya Kingsley-Adam and Clare Casey

Victory dance: George Savva

GASPS and cheers of delight rang out for Bambos Charalambous when his victory in Enfield Southgate was announced.

He beat his Tory rival by 4,355 votes in a shock win for the underdog.

It was third time lucky for Mr Charalambous who first clashed with David Burrowes in 2010 and again in 2015.

He has lived in Enfield all his life and said he and his "brilliant team" led a targeted campaign.

Elated, he stepped up to the microphone as people danced in front of the stage and simply said: "Wow!".

He said: "The Brexit vote was a big disappointment for the majority of us. Most people voted Remain in Enfield and are worried about the future.

"I will fight for housing, schools and will fight education cuts.

"But most of all I will fight for the many and not for the few.

"Enfield Southgate has spoken and you now have an MP who will listen to the people and who people can trust in."

Third time lucky: Bambos Charalambous

Greatest honour

KATE Osamor has kept hold of her Edmonton seat with a massive majority.

Grimacing at her cheering supporters the Labour MP said she was full of hope and confidence in the people of Edmonton.

Following the result in the early hours of Friday morning she said: "It has been the greatest honour of my life to represent you in Parliament.

"The fact that I'm here again thanking you is because of hope for the next generation, many young people who voted for the first time, who are full of hope."

She promised to fight for more funding for schools in Edmonton, more jobs and more police on the streets.

Ms Osamor received 31,221 votes; the Tory party candidate, Gonul Daniels, 10,106; Benjamin Gill, Green party, 633; David Schmitz, Liberal Democrats, 858 and Nigel Sussman, UKIP, 860.

Huge majority: Kate Osamor

Attention: DENTURE WEARERS

If you are a denture wearer then this article may be of some interest to you!! If you can relate to any of the following questions then it is a sign your denture needs attention:

- DO YOU FIND YOUR DENTURES:
- Do not fit as well on your gums as they used to?
  - Are they loose?
  - Do not cut food as well as they used to?
  - Do they make your face look older?
  - Have discoloured despite meticulous cleaning or
  - Cause discomfort/pain on chewing?

If any of the above breeds familiar territory then I may be able to alleviate some of these problems for you.

My name is Caroline Persaud I am a qualified CLINICAL DENTAL TECHNICIAN. Many of you may be aware of Dental Technicians/Mechanics who repair and produce dentures for dentists, however, due to recent changes in the Dental law, a group of Dental Care Professionals known as Clinical Dental Technicians have been approved by the General Dental Council and can now see denture wearers who have no natural teeth remaining, directly without having to visit a dentist.

The advantages to you, the patients, are numerous. You can be treated by a professional who has been clinically trained to undertake the impressions of your mouth and who also has the technical skill to manufacture your denture to meet your requirements.

A more direct, rapid and personalised service, that can be delivered to you in the comfort of your own home or at my day clinic in Edmonton.

Sun, songs and a pint

REVELLERS savoured the delights of real ales with strange sounding names like 'Cowcatcher,' 'Blind Poet,' 'Five Inch Drop' and 'Night-watchman' as they listened to rhythm and blues in the sunshine on Saturday.

Hundreds flocked to Forty Hall Farm to sink pints and be entertained by live bands at a Beer and Blues Festival.

The event, which was making a return following the success of its inaugural launch last year, featured 11 bands performing on two stages.

And like the tipples featured from favourite local traditional craft breweries it packed a real wallop.

Farm manager Kate McGeevor said: "This year's festival was just as successful as last year's, if not more so, and it has certainly established itself as a permanent fixture in the Forty Hall Farm calendar."

The music line-up was put together by the team who run the Live-stock Music Festival - Enfield's answer to Glastonbury, which will be held at Forty Hall Farm on Saturday, July 29.

Among the local breweries whose ales were featured was Enfield Brewing Company in Eley Road, Edmonton, and the event was supported by The Campaign For Real Ale.

Tiny pub hoping to make a big impact

By Clare Casey

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

SMALL but perfectly formed, that's Enfield's first micropub – a pint-sized boozer for up to 30 people to come and chat and drink.

There will be no loud music, no TV and no slot machines, just plenty of real ale from local microbreweries and independent brewers from further afield.

The Little Green Dragon Ale House, in Mason's Corner, Winchmore Hill, will be Enfield's first "micropub" and the brainchild of Richard Reeve, 53.

Mr Reeve, of Lavender Road, Enfield, said: "I get quite down when pubs close, it's upsetting when a place that's been there forever and is a real landmark goes.

"I've been thinking about this for a while so when an old shop premises came up, round the corner from the Green Dragon pub, it seemed like it was meant to be."

The name is a tribute to the Green Dragon, which existed as a local watering hole and landmark in Winchmore Hill, from the early 18th century – possibly as early as the 1720 – right up until 2014, when the pub was acquired by a developer and converted into a supermarket.

"I'd had this idea for a while of opening a micropub", said Richard..

"In 2015 I embarked on a charity cycle journey around the UK, visiting all 100 micropubs that were open at the time to raise money for charity.

"My dad, who has sadly now died, had Alzheimer's, so I thought this would be a great way to raise money for the charity. I went into these places and sat with strangers and made friends.

"They're very simple, there's about three tables often and people sit together and chat without all the usual distractions."

It is not just Richard who is a fan of the tiny pubs, the burgeoning micropub scene is "helping to bring real ale to spaces where a traditional pub would not be appropriate", filling gaps on high streets, according to the Campaign for Real Ale's (CAMRA) 2016 Good Beer Guide.

By finding homes in disused or even derelict buildings, micropubs can keep their overheads low and offer beer at more competitive prices than traditional rivals.

Now Richard has the keys for the old shop premises he'll be kitting it out in a very simple way, benches, tables and a few comfy chairs.

The beer will be poured straight from the casks – there's no cellar.

And his daughter Jasmin Reeve, 20, has designed the distinctive logo of a green dragon inside a beer barrel.

It'll be a few months before he's open, but the response has been positive.

As it says on his website: "We aim to prove there is still fire in this dragon's belly."

Live cockroaches found in takeaway

A CHICKEN shop in Enfield has admitted fowl play after inspectors found live cockroaches in its kitchens.

Poppin Chicken, in Fore Street, was slapped with hefty fines for "horrific" hygiene failings.

The owner ignored warnings about the shop's cleanliness dating back to 2012, with council workers finding a cockroach infestation, flies, and cheese was being stored at dangerous temperatures.

Inspectors also spotted a live cockroach running across the food preparation area when they visited in August last year.

Director Sajikanth Thananayagam agreed to close the shop due to the "imminent risk to the public's health".

Poppin Chicken and Mr Thananayagam were also ordered to pay a total of £5,239.11 at a hearing at Highbury Corner Magistrates' Court on Thursday, May 26.

Enfield's council's cabinet member for the environment, Daniel Anderson said: "It is extremely worrying when workers in a takeaway restaurant can't see what is wrong with a live cockroach crawling across a food preparation area and it was only right that this establishment was closed and prosecuted for some quite horrific hygiene failings.

"It is not acceptable by any standards to expose diners to the risk of food poisoning and this sentence sends out a clear message that such behaviour will not be tolerated."

Poppin Chicken was fined £1,500, ordered to pay costs of £1,354 and a victim surcharge of £150 while Mr Thananayagam was fined £800, ordered to pay costs of £1,354 and an £80 victim surcharge.

The takeaway was ordered to close and reopened three days later when a food safety officer re-inspected the premises and declared himself happy with the improvements made.

Fined: Hygiene failings

BRIGHT SPARKS

Whether you're looking to save money on your lighting by switching to LED, searching for that perfect lamp - or are a tradesman working on a complete house makeover, family-run independent electrical wholesaler AW Electrical Supplies has it all.

With shopping locally and supporting local businesses more important than ever, we popped into their shop, conveniently situated just off the A10, to find out more and meet the bright sparks behind the company...

The moment you step into AW Electrical Supplies you can tell that brothers Anthony and William Oliveri (no prizes for how they came up with the name) have been in the electrical industry for a while.

Packed full of all that's new and cutting edge in the electrical industry and with that welcoming feeling so often missing within this trade, if you've got time for a coffee, definitely grab one (although I would personally recommend the hot chocolate).

Set up 9 years ago against the tide of a rise in the national wholesaler providing a faceless, unfriendly policy of only being able to provide those items already in their catalogue, AW, as well as stocking over £400k of products on site doesn't believe in saying no - if you want it and it's available somewhere...they'll find it.

With both brothers born and bred in Enfield (and William living just 10 minutes from the shop) it's clear that there was only going to be one place they'd choose to showcase what their 40 years of experience in the industry has shown them. "From lighting and heating through to electrical tools, we want every customer to walk away from our counter happy that they have everything they need. Whether it's the information they need to make informed judgements about the best materials for their projects, or a boot full of stock so that they can get on with the job that day" explains Anthony.

Anthony and Bill Oliveri

"So many companies will tell you they can get it for you in a couple of days - we want you to walk away with it that day, that's why we invest so much in stock, as well as our fleet of delivery vans," chipped in William. "That's not to say if we don't stock it here, we can't get it. We don't believe in anything being 'special', so if we haven't got it we'll source it for the customer, however big or small the order."

On hand from 7am each day, it's clear that the Oliveri brothers are passionate about customer service and with such a convenient location for us locals, it's literally a case of popping round the corner to see the extensive range of products in person. And for those who don't have the time to visit? Their new and improved website and speedy delivery service makes ordering online easier than ever.

"Being a small, independent business we're able to offer unrivalled knowledge and top quality electrical products - while keeping our prices as low as possible," says William. That's the AW promise in a nutshell, and there's no doubt that this local light is definitely the one-stop-shop for all our electrical needs.

Garden designers: Chris Valiantis and Ollie Neaves

Garden therapy for dementia patients

By Clare Casey

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

A MINI stands at a pedestrian crossing, as two ladies in wheelchairs cross, heading for the post office and the grocers.

This perfect replica of a post war street scene – complete with a red post box and street lamps – is not an interactive display at the Imperial War Museum, it is one of two new therapeutic care gardens at Chase Farm Hospital.

What used to be a run down, rickety outdoor space with cracked paving and little else has been transformed for dementia patients, to help stir memories and give them a safe place to wander “when everything becomes too much”.

There are brightly coloured benches, a water feature and shop fronts – the haberdashers and butchers will be installed next week.

Tracey Goodman, urgent care matron, in the Ridgeway Enfield, said: “This was my idea. I asked for £15,000 for the garden to be tidied up to create a safe space for patients who need somewhere to go.

“I never imagine it could be anything like this, it’s amazing, I’m ecstatic.

“Dementia patients have trouble seeing dull colours so the benches are all brightly painted. There’s a post box, so they can come out here and post letters.

“They forget their parents have died, they forget how old they are, so we do things like give them mother’s day cards to write and then they can walk out and post them.

“The wards can get very noisy, so this is a place to escape to.”

Tracey did not just get a ‘tidy up’ she got two gardens, the like of which has only ever been seen in the Netherlands, thanks to a fundraising frenzy carried out by the Chase Farm Charity, part of the Royal Free Charity, which raised more than £135,000 in two years.

Chris Valiantis and Ollie Neaves from Tectonic landscape architects were the designers and gardeners.

They frequently stayed until the early hours of the morning to get the work done and have been overwhelmed by the hundreds of volunteers who have helped out in the gardens.

Mr Valiantis said: “We’re really pleased with it because the patients love it.

“Both gardens have a completely different feel but they’re the same size. The Japanese garden is really special to me, I love the serenity of it.

“Nearly all flowers and herbs have evocative and healing properties, lavender is well known for its soothing properties, helping us to unwind, but also it has the ability to take us back in time, remind us of things.

“The garden in the early evening smells absolutely wonderful.”

Veronica Carson, 70, has been in the hospital for rehabilitation while her home is made wheelchair friendly.

She said: “I’ve watered the plants every day and helped plant things from seed. I’ve been here five weeks and am going home tomorrow, but I’ll really miss the gardens, they are very special.”

Safe place: Marion Crawley with nurse Smiler Dele Pene and Veronica Carson with nurse Alison Cole

ROUTINE EYE TESTS KEY IN DETECTING SIGHT-THREATENING DIABETES

An estimated 3.6 million people across the UK have been diagnosed with Type 1 or Type 2 diabetes - making it one of the fastest growing health conditions affecting the population<sup>1</sup>.

The list of long-term health complications associated with diabetes is extensive, with sight loss being one of the biggest issues. Shockingly, people with diabetes are 25 times more at risk of going blind than those without the condition.

Specsavers' clinical spokesperson, Dr Nigel Best, says: ‘Early detection of diabetes is essential for managing the symptoms and preventing more serious complications, like the eye condition diabetic retinopathy.

‘Regular eye examinations form a crucial part of this, particularly when it comes to spotting the initial signs that a patient may have diabetes and then managing the impact on their eyesight.’

As part of every eye examination for patients over 40, Specsavers incorporates digital retinal photography which takes a photograph of the back of the eye – the only part of the body where the microcirculation of blood can be directly observed. It enables opticians to detect signs of diabetes and wider health conditions. From there, they can refer patients for full medical screenings ahead of potential formal diagnosis.

Specsavers, Diabetes UK and Royal National Institute of Blind People are working together to transform the nation’s eye health and reduce avoidable sight loss. During Diabetes Week, from Sunday 11 until Saturday 17 June, Diabetes UK is highlighting the importance of a healthy diet and lifestyle in managing diabetes and preventing Type 2. This year’s theme is Know Diabetes, Fight Diabetes.

GENERAL elections can sometimes provide evidence of deep-lying changes in society, reflected in the attitudes of millions of voters.

For example, Labour's victory in 1945 is associated with great improvements in ordinary people's lives.

But it wasn't just Labour supporters who were in favour of the NHS, full employment and decent housing – everybody was, in post-war Britain.

Conservative governments, too, throughout the 1950s, maintained full employment, and built council houses.

Here in Edmonton, there were jobs to be had in factories up and down the Great Cambridge and round the North Circular.

Hundreds of families moved into the new estates off Fore Street.

After the 1979 election, Mrs Thatcher's government destroyed industry, devastated council housing, and encouraged a selfish, competitive mentality.

Not much changed when Tony Blair took over in 1997. Most of us were happy to see trade unions weakened and property values rising. Here in Edmonton, houses were constantly being done up, converted and sold on.

In 2017, we're no longer so sure that a profit-motivated system can offer us long-term security. Here in Edmonton, rubbish piles up outside the multi-occupied slums.

And once again, a general election reflects a historic change in attitudes: the younger generation have discovered politics.

Hard-working animals deserve compassion

WORKING animals – such as horses, donkeys and camels – are fundamental in supporting the livelihoods of the world's poorest people.

More than 200 million working animals do the jobs of trucks, tractors and taxis, helping to provide a small income for one billion people in developing countries worldwide.

But, this vast global workforce is largely unknown and ignored.

It's easy to forget that these animals played a key part in our own history, even for large parts of the 20th century.

Today, many people in the UK don't even know what a working animal is, but – from cart and plough horses to pit ponies – they were a familiar sight in the streets, fields and workplaces of Britain for centuries.

Many working animals currently endure hard lives and very few have access to the veterinary care they desperately need when they are sick or injured.

These invisible heroes need our help – which is why I'm asking everyone to back the Society for the Protection of Animals Abroad's International Working Animal Day on June 15.

We need to recognise the contribution of working animals and ensure they get the veterinary treatment, respect and compassion they deserve.

I ask your readers to show their support for these hard-working animals by visiting www.spana.org/IWAD

Edmonton is always left out in the cold

EDMONTON is the discarded area of London.

In elections gone by, come polling day, cars with banners would be whizzing up and down the high street with megaphones encouraging people to vote and canvassers would be knocking on doors reminding people to vote and offering lifts to people who were disabled or in some other way unable to get to the polling station.

This time round I have not seen one campaign car or received one leaflet through my door nor one visit from a prospective candidate.

So why is it that politicians are ignoring this area?

Obviously, successive governments have considered Edmonton to be a lost cause. Always a poor area, it seems that was a good enough reason to use Edmonton as a dumping ground for mass immigration.

Not that I have any problem with immigration, quite the opposite but the numbers located in Edmonton are disproportionate when looking at surrounding areas.

As a consequence, Edmonton's social housing is at breaking point as are the schools and social services.

The area has also become a breeding ground for gang culture. Police on the beat numbers have been cut to the bone and the streets feel far from safe.

I love Edmonton, that's why I have lived here all my life as did my parents before me. I find it terribly sad to see Edmonton being neglected by politicians.

I saw Boris Johnson in Enfield town last week. Would he ever visit Edmonton? The chances are somewhere below zero. There's nothing of interest here for him or any other mainstream politician.

We have good councillors here. It has been a privilege to meet them on occasions. I admire them greatly and am grateful for their enormous efforts.

Sadly we get no such effort and support on a national level.

Simple steps – happy holiday

HOLIDAYS are supposed to be a time for rest and relaxation, but they can sometimes cause unnecessary pressure.

It's normal to want to look and feel our best, but it's important to remember that although a last-minute health kick can produce short-term results, making extreme changes fast can be bad for your health.

And as digestive problems such as constipation and diarrhoea are so common on holiday, a good way to feel comfortable and confident during your break is to optimise your gut health in the weeks before.

Instead of hitting the gym hard or quitting sugar, I suggest simple changes to help keep your bowels healthy and regular.

Make sure you have plenty of water and fibre and try to go to the toilet at the same time every day.

This will stop you feeling bloated or sluggish, so you'll be free to focus on your plans.

For more lifestyle changes and tips on avoiding unpleasant issues, download the free guide to holiday health from myconstipationrelief.com/uk/

BECCA can be a big help

I KNOW only too well that getting off the treatment treadmill can be the most daunting part of breast cancer. I found it as hard as, if not even harder than, my diagnosis.

When I finished my hospital treatment, people expected me to celebrate, but instead I was scared about the future.

That's why Breast Cancer Care's new BECCA app is so vital. It provides bitesize practical information and lifestyle tips to support women in the same position as I was.

It can be a huge challenge to face life after breast cancer with confidence.

So please, if you know someone struggling after treatment, encourage them to download "BECCA" on the App Store and make it the day they start to move forward.

FAMILY ANNOUNCEMENTS

Comedian uses humour to highlight health issue

By Priya Kingsley-Adam

priya.kingsley-adam@nlhnews.co.uk

A COMEDIAN from Southgate who uses her visual disability as the subject of her stand-up routine is raising awareness about the importance of regular eye pressure check ups.

When Georgie Morrell was just 16 years old she lost the vision in her left eye from glaucoma – a condition caused by fluid build up behind the eye, which puts pressure on the optic nerve.

As part of National Glaucoma Awareness week, which started on Monday, the 30-year-old from Southgate Green is joining The International Glaucoma Association to educate people about the importance of having their eye pressure checked.

Georgie suffered problems with her eyes from the age of three – when she developed uveitis – a condition which causes an inflammation in the middle layer of the eye.

She developed a cataract when she four and another at eight, which resulted in her having surgery to remove the affected lens. She temporarily went blind in her right eye at 21 but is permanently blind in her left.

Georgie now tours the country telling anecdotes about going blind in her show, called A Poke in the Eye, which she says helps to “break down the barriers.”

“I’m a firm believer in writing about what you know,” she said. “I make jokes and I give the audience the permission to laugh.”

Her comedy sketch includes anecdotes about her brother playing pranks on her even after she lost her sight and her mother’s help with bathing.

Georgie said the audience’s reaction to the topics varied.

“Some audiences don’t want to hear about disabilities, but others can find it liberating.”

However, she said disabilities needed to be talked about more to remove the stigma.

“There’s a big responsibility for the disabled community to talk about their experiences,” explained Georgie.

She describes the platform her performance provides in discussing her disability as “dramatic” and “poignant”.

Georgie will be performing her next show this Wednesday at The Old Truman Brewery, in Brick Lane, London.

“I’ve always performed,” she said. “And I love talking to people and telling stories.”

Check-up: Georgie Morrell

Job was a labour of love

Calling time: Christine Brindley sets up a practical lesson for students at Nightingale Academy

Lab technician retires after 38 years at school

By Clare Casey

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

A LAB technician who has spent almost four decades commuting from Kent to Edmonton to a job she loves is hanging up her white coat.

Christine Brindley started working at the now Nightingale Academy, in Turin Road, as a lab technician 38 years ago when her own two children attended the school.

Despite living in Bexley, she has continued doing the lengthy commute to do the job she loves.

Originally known as Mandeville Secondary Comprehensive School, then Salisbury School and then Turin Grove School, the school reopened in 2010 as Nightingale Academy.

Mrs Brindley, 67, said: "It's a really sad time, but it is time to retire."

"It has been the people who have kept me here. I have been lucky enough to have always had a really good team around me. We have all worked here for a long while; one of the ladies I started working here with stayed until she retired, too."

"We have all become great friends and I will keep in touch and visit Edmonton to see them."

"There have been a lot of changes over the years, but the staff in this school have always been really nice."

"Things have changed around us, but our job has stayed just the same; setting up the practical lessons for students which is really interesting."

The great-grandmother is retiring to travel and spend time with her growing family.

Mrs Brindley is starting retirement with a ten-day trip to Santorini, a Greek island, and is looking forward to being able to attend sports days and assemblies for her youngest relatives in future.

Looks about right: The show features turns from Mick Jagger and Johnny Cash lookalikes, among others

Cashing in – and taking the Mick

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

WHERE else could you see The Beatles, Tommy Cooper, Cliff Richard, Bill and Ben the Flowerpot Men, Elvis, Buddy Holly and a galaxy of other rock legends, showbiz stars and TV characters, all on the same bill?

Combining classic hits spanning the 50s, 60s and 70s together with side-splitting comedy sketches, the nostalgia is non-stop as musical variety show That'll Be The Day comes to Wylyotts Theatre in Darnes Lane, Potters Bar, on Saturday.

The entertainment extravaganza revives the memories and sounds from the birth of rock 'n' roll through to glam rock.

And you'd be wrong to think it's just another show cashing in on a recent renewed wave of interest in all that's retro.

That'll Be The Day has been running for more than 30 years, with slight format changes and re-writes each season to keep it fresh.

It was started 32 years ago as a six-week experiment by the show's founder, director and cast member, Trevor Payne.

The slick fast-paced formula of authentically sounding and talented live musicians and vocalists accurately portraying and playing the classic hits of rock and pop greats combined with cheeky send-ups and comic skits has proved a remarkable and long-lasting success.

The audience is transported back to the 1950s and the music and youth culture of the era with appearances by Buddy Holly,

Three-sy does it: A vocal trio in action

Elvis, Cliff Richard and the Shadows, among others.

A Mersey Sounds section covers the 60s with tributes to Cilla, The Beatles, Dusty Springfield and many more from Shirely Bassey and Connie Francis to Johnny Cash and Barbara Streisand. It is followed by a 70s melody featuring glam rock bands as well as Karen Carpenter, Kiki Dee, Dolly Parton, Gloria Gaynor and Whitney Houston among others.

Among those sent-up with tongue-in-cheek impressions performed by Trevor Payne are Cliff Richard, together with Rolling Stone, Mick Jagger.

Evans flexes his acting muscles

GIFTED (12A, 101 mins)

A PRECOCIOUS six-year-old girl with a beautiful mind is the glittering prize of an acrimonious custody battle in Marc Webb's deeply moving drama.

Penned in broad strokes by screenwriter Tom Flynn, Gifted overcomes a formulaic structure to deliver hefty emotional wallops, and provides buff leading man Chris Evans with a meaty dramatic role to test his acting mettle rather than his bulging biceps.

Webb's film is laden with delightful surprises, including a stellar performance from 10-year-old McKenna Grace in the pivotal role of a quick-witted mathematical prodigy, who is sassy beyond her years.

She deftly eschews winsomeness to capture the frustrations of her wunderkind, who is painfully aware that she towers above her peers and some of the teachers, who are supposedly shepherding her to brighter academic horizons.

On-screen rapport between Evans and Grace has the ease and familiarity of kin, and when the floodgates open in the film's second half, both actors let the tears flow naturally and break our hearts in the process.

Admittedly, Oscar winner Octavia Spencer is poorly served in a perfunctory supporting role and a subplot involving a one-eyed pet cat veers dangerously close to mawkishness.

Thankfully, director Webb nimbly avoids each potentially fatal pitfall

Octavia Spencer as Roberta, McKenna Grace as Mary and Chris Evans as Frank

without sacrificing compassion for his flawed characters.

Florida boat repairman Frank Adler (Evans) home schools his cherubic niece Mary (Grace), who inherited her passion for algebra from her late mother.

Frank feeds the child's insatiable hunger for knowledge but also jealously guards Mary's playtime.

He wants her to have a normal upbringing, full of laughter.

Against the advice of worrywart neighbour Roberta (Spencer), Frank enrolls Mary in first grade of the local school, where the little girl dazzles her form teacher by performing complex multiplications in her head.

The school's principal (Elizabeth Marvel) takes an active interest and is dumbfounded when Frank refuses a full scholarship for Mary to a nearby school for gifted children.

"Never get on the bad side of small-minded people with a little authority," warns Roberta.

Soon after, Mary's maternal grandmother Evelyn (Lindsay Duncan) materialises in Florida to stake a claim to the child in the court of Judge Edward Nichols (John M Jackson).

While Frank and Evelyn trade verbal blows through their lawyers, Mary makes clear her unerring devotion to Frank: "He wanted me before he knew I was smart".

Gifted is a heartfelt ode to sacrifice that succeeds despite its occasional reliance on clichés.

The dynamic double-act of Evans and Grace are ably supported by Duncan as a steely matriarch, who believes she knows best but has much to learn, like her spunky granddaughter.

A romantic dalliance involving Frank and Mary's teacher is sensibly kept on the backburner as the heartbreak of the court case swells and we clamour in the dark for tissues.

The Changing Landscape

The last year has brought significant change across the political spectrum around the globe. In the UK we made decisions which will have ramifications that will impact future generations, whether positively or negatively it remains to be seen.

What hasn't changed through all of the uncertainty is that we need to be building more properties. Whether they are private, affordable or rented, there is still a demand for more housing to cope with the increase in our population both naturally and through immigration.

To deliver this housing we desperately need Land holders to come forward and explore the development potential of their freehold. This could be a large PLC, small limited company, a homeowner with a large plot around their property or a collection of neighbours who have come together. Whether it is one property or several thousand, it all adds to meeting the target that we are continually being told we need to be delivering.

As a specialist Land & New Homes company, Lanes can provide up to date market appraisals and advise on all things development from inception to completion.

For an initial, confidential chat please contact Simon Cox at Lanes Land on 01992 526754 or email simon.cox@lanesnewhomes.co.uk.

ACCURATE VALUATIONS IN ENFIELD

The main factors that affect the price achieved for your home are likely to be size, location and fittings. However, there are innumerable other variations that can add significant value.

Valuing properties in Enfield is not like valuing properties elsewhere. There are thousands of different styles and in some roads every other property is quite different to the next. The knowledge to appreciate these differences can only be built up over time.

At Ian Gibbs, our valuers have built up that knowledge with over 40 years of selling properties in the EN1/EN2 area and that experience heightens the chance of you realising the full potential of your greatest financial asset.

Landlords Beware - Is your leasehold buy-to-let losing its value?

A lease is a "wasting" asset. It will end eventually. Having a "short" lease (usually one below 80 years) may make a flat difficult to sell at the price you want, and to use as security for a mortgage.

In 2010 Steve purchased a flat at auction. It was only £120,000 for a three bed flat in Southgate. Steve couldn't believe his luck, he thought it was an absolute steal. Similar sized flats in the same block were selling for three times that amount. The lease was for 40 years which Steve thought was ample time, 40 years of rent would be great for the amount invested. He decided after renting it for several years that now would be a good time to cash out. Looking at the market, he thought his flat would have increased drastically in value. He had his property valued and was shocked that instead it had fallen in price.

Steve decided he would speak to Stennett

Properties to evaluate his options. There were four clear routes. 1) Sell the property at auction without the benefit of an extended lease. 2) Market the property with Stennett Properties and sell with the benefit of the extended lease. 3) Extend the lease himself. 4) Continue letting the flat until the lease expires.

Steve decided that the third option was the best one to take. He would have the lease extended so he could market it at a higher price. Stennett Solicitors and Estate Agents were able to offer a one stop shop for Steve all under one roof. Stennett Solicitors specialises in the Leasehold Reform (Housing and Urban Development) Act 1993 which would enable Steve to extend his lease. Stennett Properties then marketed the property with the extended lease and achieved the higher price Steve wanted.

Buying and maintaining short-term leases are fraught with difficulties and traps for the unwary and inexperienced purchaser. Stennett Solicitors and Estate Agents specialise in property law. ## L&Q offers £500 towards shared ownership fees at Bolingbroke Park

First-time buyers can now take advantage of an exciting new offer on shared ownership homes at Bolingbroke Park, L&Q's parkland development in Cockfosters.

For a limited time only, L&Q is offering to pay £500 towards buyers' legal fees when they purchase a shared ownership home at Bolingbroke Park. Alternatively, prospective homeowners can choose to redeem the equivalent amount in Love2shop vouchers, which are accepted at major high street retailers, including House of Fraser, Patisserie Valerie and Waterstones.

With shared ownership, buyers are able to own their own home at Bolingbroke Park for as little as £111,250 for a 25 per cent share of a two-bedroom apartment, helping first-time buyers to get on the property ladder in London.

Over 85 per cent of these extremely popular homes have already been sold. Now, only two and three-bedroom properties remain, offering plenty of space for entertaining, and hosting family and friends.

Nestled amid 12 acres of woodland and scenic ponds, Bolingbroke Park includes 52 shared ownership homes, as well as 160 properties for private sale. Perfect for young professionals or families, the homes offer good value space without having to sacrifice city living.

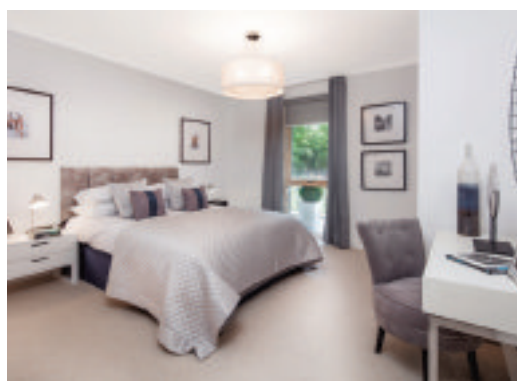

Just ten minutes' walk from Cockfosters station on the Piccadilly Line, residents can access central London in around 30 minutes. The line's Night Tube also brings the capital's cultural hotspots and vibrant nightlife into easy reach. At the same time, Cockfosters' independent shops, pubs and restaurants means that Bolingbroke Park offers a London lifestyle with the best of country living.

Lucy Chitty, L&Q's Regional Sales Director, commented:

"Buying a property in London can be a real struggle, so we are delighted that our shared ownership homes at Bolingbroke Park present such a great opportunity for first-time buyers to get on the property ladder.

"Now, buyers can take advantage of this fantastic new offer, easing the financial pressures of purchasing your own home and giving more people that much sought after sense of security without needing to leave London."

Available shared ownership homes range from £111,250 to £131,250 for a 25 per cent share of a two-bedroom and a three-bedroom apartment respectively. Bolingbroke Park's Sales and Marketing Suite is open seven days a week at Chase Side, Cockfosters EN4 8HT. For more information or to book an appointment visit www.bolingbrokepark.co.uk or call 0333 0033 637.

Impressive (road) manners

By Simon Davis

As the Spanish manufacturer's bestselling car of all time – with more than 5.4 million examples sold worldwide – the latest version of the Ibiza is an incredibly important car for Seat. To give it an extra bit of edge over its rivals, plenty of new tech has made its way on to the supermini – which is now being offered solely as a five-door.

Seat is making a particular song and dance about the fact the latest Ibiza is the first vehicle in the wider Volkswagen Group to make use of the new MQB A0 platform. This means the B-segment car not only benefits from greater space in the cabin, there is also a host of new toys that would normally only be found in more premium cars on offer – such as wireless phone charging and a range of safety equipment.

As far as design is concerned, the fifth-generation Ibiza is more evolution than revolution when compared with its predecessor. It has a distinctly more grown-up appearance, with sharp creases and triangular motifs contributing to a purposeful and sporty stance – particularly on FR models – although it would be a bit of an exaggeration to say the new car was hugely different from the old one.

In typical VW Group fashion, build quality feels sound throughout the car. While the cabin isn't particularly exciting, it's functional in its layout, with all key controls within easy reach of the driver. A new eight-inch touchscreen infotainment system dominates the centre of the dash that is responsive and easy to read. Top-level cars benefit from a swanky BeatsAudio sound system, too, a feature that will no-doubt appeal to audiophiles.

The main let-down about the new Ibiza's interior is the seating. While the driving position itself was OK, the base of the seat was tilted up towards the steering wheel at a strange angle and even after a fair amount of adjusting, it was still difficult to find a properly comfortable driving position.

One of the key benefits of the new MQB A0 platform is the fact interior space has been increased over the last model, while the overall length of the new Ibiza is a smidge shorter than before. Head and legroom in the back have improved over the older car, and two adults could easily sit in relative comfort on longer journeys. The fact that the Ibiza is now offered solely as a five-door also means accessing the rear is a far less exhausting procedure.

A bevy of safety tech also features on the latest Ibiza, with all models benefiting from Emergency Brake Assist, Front Assist and Multi-Collision Braking systems as standard.

Out on the road, while there's no denying that the new Ibiza is a capable little car, it doesn't exactly ooze character – even with the peppier 1.5-litre, 148bhp engine that was fitted to our test car. That said, its on-road manners were impressive. The steering set-up, while light and rather lacking in feedback, was responsive and allows you to point the car where you want it to go with little fuss. Through the tighter bends that were a common feature of our Spanish test route, the Ibiza felt planted and composed, with only a small amount of body roll making its presence felt.

While the Ibiza's light controls meant that it was easy to manoeuvre at low speed, its small wing mirrors and narrow rear window meant that visibility wasn't as good as you might expect from a car that has been designed to spend most of its time pottering around busy urban centres.

Out on the motorway, the Ibiza didn't feel nervous or skittish, and the 1.5-litre engine was refined and more than capable of getting the supermini up to speed in a timely fashion. That said, there was a noticeable amount of wind noise at cruising speeds, and the larger 17-inch alloys did cause a fair amount of tyre roar.

CONDITIONS OF ACCEPTANCE FOR ALL ADVERTISEMENTS

Orders are accepted by the Publishers subject to the Standard Conditions agreed between the Newspaper Society and the Institute of Practitioners in Advertising. Save that:

1. Advertisements are accepted on the conditions that (a) descriptions relating to goods are accurate and in no way contravene the provisions of the Trade Descriptions Act 1968, and the Fair Trading Act 1973, and (b) the copy complies with the British Code of Advertising Practice. Advertisements offering credit or hire facilities must conform to the Consumer Credit (Advertisements) Regulations 1980.

2. 'Classified' Advertisers offering goods or service of a business, commercial or trade nature will, at the discretion of the Publishers, be deemed 'Trade Advertisers', and as such, must include their names in advertisements. A telephone number is an optional addition to these requirements and not an alternative.

To comply with the Business Advertisements (Disclosure) Order 1977, Trade Advertisers must make it clear that they are selling goods in the course of business either by content, format, size or place of the advertisement or by including words such as 'trade', 'dealer', 'agent', 'wholesaler', 'T1' etc. in the advertisement.

3. The Publishers accept no liability whatsoever for any loss or damage however caused arising out of:

(a) Any error, inaccuracy or omission in the printing or publishing of any advertisement;

(b) Any failure to publish an advertisement on the day / date or day / dates specified by the advertiser; or

(c) Any delay in forwarding or omission to forward replies to box numbers to the Advertiser.

4. The Publishers will endeavour to publish advertisements on the day / date or day / dates specified by the Advertiser but insertion days / dates cannot be guaranteed.

5. Where shrinkage of advertisement occurs for whatever reasons the advertisement will be charged to the nearest full centimetre. This will NOT apply to the full-page advertisements, which remain full pages even after shrinkage.

6. The Publishers reserve the right to reject an advertisement or to vary it in any way they deem fit, at any time before publication, whether or not the advertisement has already been accepted for publication.

7. Whilst every effort is made to minimise errors in advertisements, mistakes do sometimes occur. Advertisers or their agents should therefore check their advertisements and inform us of any errors immediately. Responsibility cannot be accepted for more than one incorrect insertion. Typographical or minor changes, which do not affect the value of the advertisement, do not qualify for republication or allowances.

8. All gross advertising rates (except classified listings and semi-displays) are subject to and include a 0.1% Advertising Standards Board of Finance surcharge, payable by the advertiser to help finance the self-regulatory control system administered by the Advertising Standards Authority.

9. All rates quoted are subject to VAT at the rate currently in force at the time the advertisement appears.

10. Should the rate for advertisements be altered the price for remaining insertions shall be revised accordingly or the publisher shall have the right to cancel the unexpired portion of the order.

11. The placing of an advertisement order will be deemed an acceptance of these conditions.

12. Account facilities are granted at the discretion of the Company.

13. All accounts must be settled within the terms agreed by the Company and the Customer.

(1) Should an advertiser be in breach of the agreed terms, the publisher shall be entitled to levy a 10% surcharge on the value of the whole debt in respect of accounts with terms of less than 30 days, and any discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed.

(2) Regular monthly accounts that are in breach of the agreed terms will pay an interest rate of 6% above the current bank of England base rate for each month that the account is overdue and discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed. Should legal action be required the interest will be charged in accordance with the County Court Act 1984.

14. Where an advertiser instructs / appoints an advertising agent to act on their behalf, the advertiser will remain jointly and severally liable for payment in respect of an advertisement(s) should the appointed agent fail to pay. For the avoidance of doubt, the agent acts for the advertiser and not for the publisher with the agent being responsible for notifying the advertiser of this liability.

15. All queries must be notified, preferably in writing to the accounts department of the publisher within 7 days of the invoice date.

16. All digital services are maintained in partnership with the publishers' hosting service providers. Every effort is made to ensure the continuity of these services, but some occasional technical downtime beyond the publishers control may occur. The publisher and its associated companies shall be under no liability if the production and distribution of web services is delayed or prevented by any cause beyond the control of the publisher.

17. The Publisher may provide voucher copies for published advertisements in electronic form only subject to certain criteria. Further information is available on request.

18. The copyright of advertisements produced wholly or partially by the Publishers belong to the Publishers. Advertisers may not reproduce such advertisements without the Publishers' consent.

Box Numbers

Boxes are open for the receipt of bona fide answers and are not available for distribution of trade canvassing matter. Original testimonials, goods, cash, cash stamps or payments of any kind must not be enclosed. A box Number and postal address are charged as part of the advertisement, i.e. Box No., centre address. There is no charge for forwarding replies.

Box numbers alone are not available for use in 'Trade' advertisements, other than Employment and Business Opportunities.

Holiday & Travel Category

All advertising must contain the name of the advertiser, phone number alone are not permitted.

Data Protection

The service you have requested may require us to carry out a credit search at a credit referencing agency, which will record the fact that a search has been made. We may need to share your information with other lenders and credit reference agencies. However, we will only use the information from these searches to make credit-granting decisions and, if necessary, for fraud prevention or trading debtors.

Data controller will use your information for administration and analysis. We may share your information with other Tindle Group Newspaper companies or carefully selected third parties. We, or they, may send you details of other goods and services, which may be of interest to you. The information may be provided by letter, telephone or other reasonable means of communication. Calls may be recorded or monitored for training purposes.

Special conditions apply with regard to the advertising of adult services, which are outlined to all persons submitting such advertisements.

Impressive display takes Highgate top

A FANTASTIC team performance saw Highgate crush visiting Harrow St Mary's by 211 runs to climb above them into top spot in Division Two of the Kingspan Middlesex County Cricket League.

Highgate elected to bat first after winning the toss and soon began to pile on the runs against a side who went into the match still with a 100 per cent record in the league this season.

Scott Elstone (79) and Syed Muazan Ali (70) were the main contributors as the hosts amassed 308-6 before declaring, while William Bowley smashed 55 off just 25 deliveries.

Highgate were equally impressive with the ball in the second half as the match, ripping through the visitors' batting to dismiss them for 97 – with Malik Shahid Sadiq (5-16), Craig Gourlay (3-14) and Elstone (2-1) doing the damage.

However, North London and Hornsey were both beaten to leave them languishing in the bottom two places of the table – losing by ten wickets and seven wickets at the hands of Indian Gymkhana and Eastcote respectively.

Meanwhile, North Middlesex had to settle for a losing draw from their home clash against Ealing in the Premier Division.

Charlie MacLeod (46) and Luke Hollman (42) were the main contributors as North Middlesex made it to 236-9, but Thomas Plant's unbeaten 86 proved crucial as Ealing made it to 226-7 in reply, with their faster rate of scoring enabling the visitors to pick up the four points.

North Middlesex go to Hampstead on Saturday, while North London host Highgate and Hornsey visit Harrow St Mary's.

HAPPY HARRY

A proud moment: Harry Kane captained England in Saturday's match against Scotland

By Dominique Stafford

sport.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

HARRY KANE has admitted that he would be honoured to be named the England captain on a permanent basis after leading the side out for the first time against Scotland on Saturday.

With England's official skipper Wayne Rooney currently out of favour, manager Gareth Southgate has used several different captains in recent matches – with Jordan Henderson and Gary Cahill among those to have been given the role.

But Saturday's World Cup qualifier at Hampden Park saw the Tottenham Hotspur striker being handed the armband, and he responded by snatching a last-gasp equaliser to enable England to escape with a 2-2 draw after two late Leigh Griffiths' free-kicks had seemingly put Scotland on the way to victory.

And Kane revealed that it was a proud moment for him to lead the side out and that he would be delighted to get the chance to do it again on a regular basis.

"I've said before that I'd love to be England captain, but I don't know what the manager's feelings are on it," he said. "When you're on the pitch not much changes, we have plenty of leaders in the team. I'm sure Gareth will make the decision when he's ready to make it."

"It was a special feeling for me. It was quite emotional. Gareth told me just before training on Friday and I was proud. I went back and told my family, it's something I've always dreamed of – as most kids do growing up.

"A good captain leads by example on and off the pitch as a role model. I'm a calm character, not someone who gets too high and too low. I'm just one of many who could be captain."

Meanwhile, Eric Dier insists that Spurs will strive to do even better in the Premier League next season.

Tottenham enjoyed a terrific campaign as they ended up in second place, and Dier – who joined Kane in the England starting line-up against Scotland – sees no reason why they cannot keep on improving.

"It was a great season," he said. "I think we're obviously disappointed we didn't reach our main objective, which was to finish in first place and win the Premier League, but I think as a whole we can look at the season as a positive."

"We improved a lot on the season before in terms of the Premier League. Obviously there are things that we can still improve on and definitely next time we'll be looking to do a lot better in the Champions League as well. But overall I think it's been a positive season."

"I think this group and this team and this club wants to keep improving and keep striving to do even better than we are at the moment. That's always the objective."

Skolars power to a much-needed win

THE London Skolars got their bid for a top-eight finish in rugby league's Kingstone Press League One back on track by securing a 31-18 victory at home to Oxford on Saturday.

A run of disappointing results in recent weeks had seen the Skolars slide down the table, but they put that behind them with a dominant display in this match – although it was not until the second half that they managed to pull clear on the scoreboard.

The visitors more than held their own during an opening 40 minutes which saw them take the lead three times courtesy of tries from Joshua Atkinson, Callum Windley and Scott Fleming, all of which were converted by Harvey Burnett.

But the Skolars hit back on each occasion as Ben Pointer (twice) and Sadiq Adebisi claimed tries which Jy-Mel Coleman converted to leave the contest tied 18-18 at the interval.

The second half saw the hosts take control of the match though and they went ahead for the first time on 54 minutes when Mike Bishay touched down in the corner.

Coleman was unable to convert, but he did slot over a penalty and a drop-goal to extend the Skolars' advantage to seven points.

And any doubt over the result was ended when the hosts struck again five minutes from time – Callum Bustin forcing his way over the line for a converted try to seal their win.

The London Skolars travel to seventh-placed Keighley Cougars, who are just a point above them in the table, on Sunday.
